

Padre's Point of View . . .

Meditation... You may have noticed that there is a new trend for meditation. In fact, there are books and apps and celebrities promoting it. This is a wonderful idea. Meditation settles the mind, puts life in a balance, and creates an open space deep within. It can also be a wonderful form of prayer; like all things we just have to put God in the center. I love to repeat God's name slowly...Dios...Dios...Dios...Dios. This helps me to be quiet and to focus on God and His merciful love for me.

Seminarian Dominic Rankin will be joining us at Sacred Heart Parish through August. He is the oldest of three kids (beating out my twin sister by 3 minutes), and blessed to have been raised by great Catholic parents in Quincy, IL. He is the youngest of his classmates in seminary (just having turned 24 in May), and blessed to have studied two years of philosophy at Bishop Bruté in Indianapolis and three years of theology at the North American College in Rome. During his time in Rome, he baked a lot of cookies, played a lot of soccer, prayed a lot of Holy Hours, saw a lot of churches, gotten to know a lot of new people, and had a ton of fun following Our Lord wherever He leads! He is very excited to be given the chance to spend the summer at Sacred Heart preparing to be ordained a deacon in Rome in September and a priest for our diocese in May of 2018!

Solemnity of the Body and Blood of Christ
Food and Drink. Flesh and Blood. In his Gospel, Saint John shares three related levels of "flesh and blood" concerning Jesus Christ. (1) He is human, just like us (in all things but sin). (2) He did suffer and die on the cross (once for all). (3) He gives Himself as food and drink – and longs for each of us and all of us to dine at this ritual meal (Sunday Mass).

- ▶ Although one form, one Eucharistic species is enough for valid Communion, why should I both eat and drink?
- ▶ How can drinking from the Communion cup bind me more closely to Jesus Christ?
- ▶ How does this drinking and eating meld me more richly with the community of believers?
